

CESBA Adult Education Strategy Day- January 25, 2018
Evaluations

- yes
- we need to be at table ie: LLAC
- yes, interested in the similarities, want to discuss strategic direction
- I am much more aware of what is happening in ACES groups across the province. All of us struggle with similar issues.
- Great work!
- Yes! There are several nuggets that I took away for consideration and possible implementation. Ex: evening co-op using curious.com for PLAR
- Absolutely! Excellent info!
- Sharing varied lens that regions use for similar focus
- Sharing of challenges and how to overcome them was very useful to our learning and approach
- Yes! I have a better understanding of the long-term goals and objectives to guide my work.
- Yes. Key competencies in some of the presentations.
- Frank's presentation was great – informative.
- yes, particularly the regional updates.

3. Please provide us with feedback on the future role that you think CESBA can play as we move forward in relation to the ACES initiative. (short-term and long-term)

- this requires more time.
- supporting RDAES – where are our work plans, strategic plans similar and can we maximize learning and funding.
- bringing all the table together to make sure we have opportunity to move forward thinking about what we are all doing. Help us not create silos.
- critical partner re: monitoring and supporting growth in this initiative. Liaison for all groups/ regional partnerships.
- we should have a planning committee
- continue to facilitate sessions such as this to bring regions together. A) if a meeting of shorter duration is necessary consider video conference participation. B) can someone who can't attend in person participate via video conference?
- planning should happen ahead – no changes in direction when budgets are set, ie: advertising.
- governance models for region (connect with CODE to get a sense of willingness to release control)
- advocacy of learner I.D./tracking provincially for adult learners
- ongoing sharing of feedback/progress from different regions, very helpful to work together to problem solve and overcome obstacles.
- CESBA is the “hub” taking all of our perspectives and communicating with Ministry partners.
- RAMP work is valuable
- information sharing/connecting all tables.
- host more meetings like this to share. Once a year – not enough.

CESBA Adult Education Strategy Day- January 25, 2018
Evaluations

4. Drawing on what you have heard today and your own thoughts, what are the key points that CESBA should hold on to when we are planning future ACES related activities?

- advertising
- regional guidance roles
- continue to bring us together, help with consistent messaging around the province, Governance working groups.
- I like the concept/idea of a provincial marketing. Plan ties to the OSSA and the value of this diploma.
- continue to bring the group together for discussion and idea sharing
- organize and share strategic directions proposed by table teams (avoid duplication of efforts).
- sharing and communication of information – continue to be the bridge between boards and the ministries.
- website common to AES is one idea
- having a facilitator was a great way to keep everything on track/running smoothly
- continue to look at sustainability of this momentum, continue to support sharing
- time (..?..) other means, e.g. teleconferences, etc.

5. Any other comments.

- not enough time for discussion
- doors were kept closed – hot, uncomfortable – have a pounding headache as a result. When door was opened for air, it was closed by moderator. Just too small, too hot, and no real time....?
- Thanks for all that you do!
- Foster tri-Ministry work and representation at all meeting.
